RE: FIRE TRAINING

Dear Phil

Many thanks for the Fire Training carried out on site on Thursday 6th February 2003.
I appreciate your rapid response, as it was important to react to our situation urgently.

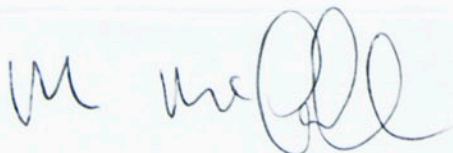

The course was appreciated by the workforce, several comments made since, regarding the 'easy style' and 'delivery' suggest that you got your message across.

Having attended the first session myself I did feel better informed at the end of the session. As you stated on the course there is a fear of what we don't know. Good information and training do lead to improved knowledge and give confidence. Very important when dealing with an emergency that 'we get it right'.

The training for the Fire Marshall's too has improved their understanding of the Role and are more prepared now to carry out the task.

Many thanks too for the suggestions to improve our emergency arrangements.

Regards,
